

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable. This is of very great concern as my cel phone is my only means of outside communication and I am disabled with several life-threatening conditions.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. I specifically restrict my phone calling and use a pre-paid card to keep my fees low. It is unfair to ask me shoulder the burden of individuals and corporations who casually make long distance calls and are careless about the number and duration of the calls they place, In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is obscenely unfair!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee and warn you that those like me will take out our displeasure at the polls and meetings where oversight measures are discussed not to mention appointments, etc. One hopes if your conscience and concern does not move you, practical political consequences will!
